County Launches March of Dimes Drive For Month

The month-long 1953 March of Dimes was launched locally and throughout the nation last week with polio fighters everywhere still reeling under the impact of polio's severest epidemic. Mrs. Theo Tidbury, Hancock County chairman, announced.

The display set up on the highway near Gilmore's to remind the traveling public during the holidays of the high toll of accidents on the highways has received statewide recognition. The theme of the display set up by Fahey Funeral Home, was "Speed, No. 1 Killer today on the Highway." The slogan used was "We can wait, can you?" Your Funeral Directors, Fahey's!

This sign is ably supported by a casket vault and a wrecked automobile involved in an accident that resulted in four seriously injured and two fatalities. Both cars in this particular wreck were demolished.

The Mississippi Safety Council has requested that Fahey's send a photo of this display to be incorporated in the annual report to the National Safety Council office in Chicago. Assisting the sponsors in setting up this display were Gilmore Motor Co., who moved the car; the Insurance Adjusters Bureau, custodians of the car, in Gulfport, who gave permission to use the automobile, and Eric Necaise, representing the Mississippi Power Company, who set up the wiring. They are all to be complimented for their part in reminding the traveler of what can result from speeding.

The special classes in education for handicapped children opened Monday, January 5, with Mrs. Grace Clark in charge of the group. This class has been set up to take care of a long-felt need in public education in Mississippi. At a recent session of the legislature, an appropriation was made by the State to assist in the teaching of children who were handicapped physically or who were retarded in the grades because of a mental handicap.

This program is being operated in Bay St. Louis jointly with the Community and City schools assistance and is financed largely under the appropriation made by the State. At present, there is an enrollment of 10 students, including some with physical handicaps and others who are retarded in the grades.

At an early date it is the plan of officials to provide for special instruction for those students who have a speech handicap, but this will have to be worked out jointly with other schools on the coast by the use of a visiting teacher in the field of speech correction. The class in special education is in operation the entire school day, but provisions are made for these youngsters to have a rest period as part of their training in school. Since a great deal of this work is to be done with their hands, such as construction, clay modeling and drawing, it would be necessary that the teachers have the assistance of persons in the community who could help with these services as it will be impossible for one teacher to look after the group and also assist them in the various activities for the day. Any one who possesses some special talent in these fields will certainly be doing a wonderful thing if they will call the Public School and offer their services to work with this group.

All of these students have been properly screened by the Department of Psychology of Mississippi Southern College and have also had physical examinations by specialists in child diseases and child welfare. The cooperation of the public is asked in trying to care for these children and to add to this program as it develops.

The Council of Children and Youth will meet Monday, January 12, at 4:00 p.m. at the Coast Electric building. Interested parties are urged to attend.

Don't forget your contribution to the March of Dimes drive which started last week.

The
State Health Office
Says:

Poliomyelitis (Infantile Paralysis) is the only epidemic disease still on the increase in the United States. It ranges over the entire country. No longer confining its attacks to isolated geographical sections of the country, it strikes nationwide and without warning, claiming increasing numbers of adults but still hitting hardest at the utterly defenseless young children among us.

Instead of 8,000 or 10,000 cases in the country during a given year, we now average 30,000 to 40,000 cases. No one can predict with any certainty the toll for 1953, but I fear greatly that we will not get off light.

Your National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis reaches into the needs of the whole person and works to restore each victim, child or adult, to his proper place in society and to make him confident and self-reliant. Our polio chapters throughout the State do many things for the polio patient. Care of patients is the primary responsibility of the more than 3,000 National Foundation chapters which now serve every county in the nation.

Help from these chapters includes payment of hospital bills when financial assistance is needed, not only during the acute phase of illness, but throughout the long period of convalescence that may follow and so often does. Wheel chairs, braces, crutches and other orthopedic appliances prescribed by the physicians are often provided by the chapter. Transportation to hospitals and out-patient clinics for treatment or check-ups is another service frequently given by the chapter to help assure each patient a maximum opportunity for recovery.

In progressive treatment areas, chapters have trained polio emergency volunteers to assist physicians, nurses and physical therapists in the care of polio patients in the hospitals or in homes. Wherever they serve, polio emergency volunteers add a quality of friendship and personal concern that boosts morale and gives psychological impetus to recovery.

They also help cut the cost of nursing care by taking over the non-skilled, time-consuming chores that often bog down professional hands that are all too few. Polio emergency volunteers do such essential jobs as hot packing, feeding and bathing young polio patients.

Other volunteers organized by progressive chapters also give a hand with educational, recreational and occupational activities, rounding out the medical program with their personal concern for the over-all well-being of the child patient. More power to the polio emergency volunteers!

TRINITY CANDLE LIGHT SERVICES SUNDAY EVE

At 4:00 p.m. Sunday, January 11, the Epiphany Candle Lighting Services will be celebrated in the Trinity Episcopal Church with the Reverend Dr. Gladys Clark officiating. Dr. Clark said "The public is welcome to attend and we hope to have an impressive service."

The Epiphany Season, which begins January 6, as the established date of the arrival of the Wise Men, symbolizes the Manifestation of the Light of Christ to lighten the whole world. As is customary in the Trinity church, there will be a lighted star in the vaulting, a pageant in which tableau appear of the Virgin Mary, Joseph, the Shepherd and the Wise Men. A manger which has a light glowing from it represents the Light which Christ's birth brought into the world.

The Rector lights his candle from the altar, then gives light to the candles of the wise men, who in turn light the candles of all in the congregation. Standing, the congregation with candles held high, recites the Apostles' Creed which ends the service.

Selected to serve in the tableau are Nancy Robinson as The Virgin Mary; Wayne Lake as Joseph; Betty Scott, Dayton Robinson and Wallace Farragut as Wise Men; and a choral group from young people of the church.

There will be no church school Sunday morning, January 11, and worship at the Candle Light Service will be attended by church school students.

News was received here Wednesday of the death of Mrs. Royal Hagerty in a Texas hospital Wednesday morning.

Funeral services will be held in Lubbock, Texas, Friday at 2:00 p.m. Mr. Hagerty requests that his friends refrain from sending floral offerings; but, that they send the donations to the Damon Runyon Cancer Society, New York.

She is survived by her husband and a son, Royal Jr.

We are making plans to match this group with one of the strongest independent teams in this area. The House of David team has a number of new men and a number of new tricks to perform at half time, also during the game.

Reserve the night of January 23 for one of entertainment in the Bay High gym.

The elementary grades will soon be reviewing for the first semester exams. Larry Gibson has dropped from the fourth grade and moved back to Hastings.

Larry McDaniels has enrolled in the fourth grade. Joann Thigpen of Picayune has enrolled in the first grade.

KERN'S SCHOOL AT PASS CHRISTIAN

By Joe Allen

The Albert J. Kern School, formerly housed on West Beach, Pass Christian, opened its post-holiday term Monday in a charming and spacious residence located at 923 East Beach. In addition to the 15 room main building, the school has two other buildings on its ten acre plot.

Offered in the school curriculum are conventional elementary and high school courses, with emphasis placed on accelerated reading classes for all grades. Extra-curriculum activities include sailing, horse-back riding and major sports. Arts, crafts, wood-work, music, voice and group singing are included as a part of the regularly scheduled activities.

Kern School also operates a well-provisioned camp on the Jordan River used in developing students' talents, vocations and recreations and for pleasure and recreational purposes. The school grounds are nicely land-

dents will be day students."

Mr. Kern said his school has been granted a charter by the State of Mississippi. It is his policy to neither "push" nor retard a student. Each student gets individual teaching and progresses when frequently given achievement and accomplishment tests indicate readiness for more advanced work. When asked how the Kern school students would be placed in the event they should transfer at any time to another school, or enter the public school system, Mr. Kern said "Our tests are given on a national level. We would recommend the grade indicated by our achievement tests as best suited for the student's learning experiences." Mr. Kern also explained that as much as possible he tried to keep students on a learning level suitable for their social-level needs.

The reading laboratory, especially equipped to accelerate reading, is accomplishing amazing results. Eyes are trained to read thoughts quickly so that the thought content of the subject matter is quickly obtained and retained in the mind. Since the understanding of the printed word is so essential to teaching any subject, Mr. Kern stresses the importance of rapid and comprehensive reading. Mr. Kern says "There is a great misconception in the old belief that to read slowly means a more careful study in which contents of the text will be retained. Quite the contrary is true. Rapid readers remember much more and understand more clearly what is read."

In further discussion of the value of rapid reading, Mr. Kern said "The element of time saved in study is important. On the reading level of college students about 40 hours of reading assignments per month can be saved by cutting the reading time in half through accelerated reading readiness. As a visual aid in reading course, electric equipment is used that projects numbers, words, phrases and sentences on a screen with an electrically controlled time-set unit. In this manner students eyes are gradually trained until it is possible for them to read some 250 to 600 words per minute depending on student and text."

Also the air of permanency is evidenced in the manner in which Mr. Kern goes about his policy of "making haste slowly" in building the school. Mr. Kern said "In time we hope to have pre-school classes to do nothing more than defray actual expen-

Mr. Kern said his school policies about classes are being developed to meet the needs, and that special students will be accepted for individual courses. That is, a person with a reading problem or one who reads at a normal rate of speed, but wishes to accelerate his reading, will be petting.

Scattered throughout the school are soft-spoken, approachable and warm-hearted people with an evident love for children and for teaching. There is a home-like atmosphere evidenced throughout the school.
